Limitations of Greatness

"No man really knows enough
To be hateful to his brother;
None is rich enough to cuff
And be cruel to another.
None so clever that he can
Justly wrong his fellow man.

No one is so strong that he
Has the right to curb the weak,
None so great that properly
He can trample down the meek:
There is nothing in success
That excuses selfishness.

Climb unto the topmost heights,
Win yourself an honored name,
But respect another's rights,
Raise the weak and help the lame.
Strength of muscle or of mind
Gives no right to be unkind."

L. & N. PLEASED WITH TELEPHONE

Telephone Displacing System for L. & N. Division.

The Louisville and Nashville Railroad, which about a year ago equipped its main line from Cincinnati, O., to Norton, Virginia, with telephone apparatus for handling its train dispatching, has found this method so satisfactory that it recently ordered of the Western Electric Company forty-two additional telephone selector equipments to be installed on a new copper line being built from Lexington, Kentucky, to Quicksand, Ky.

A telephone selector equipment makes it possible for the train dispatcher located at headquarters, in this case at Lexington, to signal any of the way stations without calling the others. When the dispatcher at Lexington wishes to converse with the operator at Jackson the selector makes it possible for him to ring the telephone bell of the operator at Jackson without signalling any of the other operators along the line.

The new line will cover a total of ninety-six miles, and twenty-one stations will be equipped on it to handle the train movements. A message circuit to handle other railroad business, also equipped with twenty-one stations, will parallel this train circuit.

This is another instance where a railroad has found that the telephone is an efficient and reliable means of handling its various communications.

LETTER TO PRES. FOSTER

I often think of Berea and the college and of the time that I first attended the Commencement in 1892 and each succeeding commencement until I came to Nebraska. It was your words and presence at that commencement that gave me inspiration to seek something better than I had before any hope would ever be mine. I only wish that it might have been that I could have finished some course of study. Pray for me and the work that I may do for the Kingdom. My prayers will follow you wherever you may be that God may grant to you many years of service for the upbuilding of his Kingdom.

Yours for the Master's cause,
W. C. Kelly.
